More Price Changes

The price of Healdton crude was marked up yesterday 15 cents and now stands at $1.35 per barrel. This not only applies to the Healdton field proper but to Hewitt and to the Cotton County field as well. While this advance of 15 cents is doubtless less than was expected, it will help some and will keep the bunch from feeling neglected entirely. The new price was made by the Sinclair Consolidated, the Magnolia and the Hox and perhaps others.

The most interesting news, however, comes from Burkburnett where the price has been raised just the price last week by the Gulf people of $2.25 per barrel and the Magnolia raised its own price of $2.25 and is now paying $2.50. The Magnolia has also raised the price of Electra and Ranger crude to $2.50 so that everybody should be happy in Texas.

No report had been received as to Louisiana but the chances are that Louisiana crude has been bought by the Standard of Louisiana and the Texas and Gulf companies. Pine Island crude, which has been the cheapest stuff by far in the entire list and has only been bringing 75 cents per barrel, is due for a raise.

The price of oil in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois was also advanced yesterday morning making the new price $2.77 although Plymouth, which has been selling at $2.35, was only advanced 20 cents yesterday. That the price will advance again is general opinion but that it is uncertain as to everything else that goes with the oil game and conditions may change over night. For instance, Louisiana may produce considerable oil and already there is a plan on foot to build a pipe line from the new fields in that state to Oklahoma where the oil could
